Or how about a few others you may have missed–

When I was about 9 years old and taking piano lessons, the first thing I learned to play from memory was one of Bach's little Preludes. That's when I learned that Bach was not some stuffy old guy with a beard; he bent the rules. He did the unexpected, even in that little Prelude! You can count on Channel Classics for the best in Bach including this from Marie Stockmarr Becker, Viola, and Ilaria Macedonio, Harpsichord. These Sonatas for Viola (Da Gamba) and Harpsichord have reminded me of what Bach is all about. Delightful listening!

Even if you are not a fan of organ music, I urge you to listen to the samples of this one.
